How can I make a WHERE clause on the query using a DBD::Oracle::Statement? for example my $stmt = $dbh->prepare("select * from department where departmentid = :deptid"); $stmt->execute(undef, {deptid => $deptid}); $deptid is not defined. $deptid is provided by another function and is assigned to undef before running this script. A: When using DBD::Oracle, you want to use the oracle_* functions instead of their Oracle equivalents. my $stmt = $dbh->prepare("select * from department where departmentid = :deptid"); $stmt->bind_param(":deptid", $deptid); $stmt->execute(); It is usually a better idea to use the bind_variable method instead of binding a literal value, though. my $deptid = $deptid_param; $stmt->bind_variable(":deptid", $deptid); And if you're using DBD::Oracle, then be sure to use ::typeof(variable) to test if it is undefined or empty: my $deptid = $deptid_param; if(defined $deptid){ $deptid = ::typeof($deptid) eq "DBI::SQL_DV_STRING" } A: You should use Oracle::Adaptor or bind_value. A: As long as you use Oracle DBI f678ea9f9e
